After the adoption of the minutes of the previous regular and special meetings, E. Edwards, E. Jackson and Sam Baxter addressed the meeting, asking why they were laid off city relief work while others were kept on. Council explained that this was relief work and that the money must be made to go as far as possible among the deserving. Left for Public Works committee to go further into the matter.

Ald. McAllister recommended that Mr. Wranne be appointed caretaker of parks at $50 a month. Carried.

H. Stewart applied for position of caretaker of cemetery at $80 a month. Referred to Parks Committee to make arrangements if possible, to have work done within estimates.

Accounts to the amount of $873.27 were passed for payment, with $371.40 relief work.

The suggestion of Ald. Ellis that the Provincial government be asked to gravel an equal length of road through city as council is now undertaking, namely, about half a mile, as the government proposition on file is to go fifty-fifty with Wetaskiwin in graveling the main highway through city. This was endorsed by council.

The police committee and Chief J. Police will consider the question of enforcing bylaw which prohibits the parking of trucks on business streets. Council considered several concrete sidewalks which should be repaired. Committee will attend to the matter.

The question of purchasing lumber for sidewalks was brought up by Ald. Scott. Referred to Public Works committee to get prices and report.

Chief of Police Kingzett submitted samples of cloth and suit was authorized to be made by Chas. Boyer. Meeting adjourned.

Weddings

WILSON—REED

A quiet and pretty wedding was solemnized at the Manse, Wetaskiwin, on Wednesday, when Lorena Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Reed, was united in marriage to Vernon Wilson, eldest son of Mr. W. Wilson.

Rev. A. L. Elliott officiated. The bride was daintily gowned in a floral maize silk chiffonette dress, with jacket to match. Bridesmaid, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and George Wilson, brother of the groom, was best man. After the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the bride's home to immediate relatives and friends. The young couple will make their home in the Wetaskiwin district.

Miss Muriel Boyle, teacher at Heister, made a short visit at the home of Mrs. Greiner while en route to Calgary, where she spent the holidays with her parents.

Doris Schellin of Camrose Normal has been visiting at her home in the Bears Hill district during Easter holidays, and is observing and practicing teaching in Angus Ridge this week.

Ozell Richards left last week for a short visit to the United States. He, accompanied by his father, J. F. Richards, will return to Wetaskiwin by motor, and they expect to reach home on Friday of this week.

A most enjoyable evening was spent in the Moose Hall on Thursday evening last, when a pie-smelling contest was staged by the W.O.M.L. Roy Creswell was the winner, the pie being made of cedar shavings.

Rev. A. L. Elliott conducted the services in the United Church at Olds on Sunday last, taking the work of Rev. T. Edgar Armstrong, who had charge of both services in the United Church here that day.

Several Royal Arch Masons accompanied R.W. Bro. F. B. Watson, Grand Superintendent, on his official visit to an Edmonton Chapter on Tuesday evening of this week. They reported having had a very enjoyable outing.

Mr. H. G. Westendorf of the Imperial Bank staff at Mayerthorpe, Alta., is spending his holidays at the home of his parents. He reports that the roads around Mayerthorpe are in poor condition, as he was stuck in a mud hole on his way home for about three hours before being pulled out.

A delightful time was spent by the members of the Order of the Eastern Star and the Masons of Wetaskiwin in the Masoic Hall on Wednesday evening last. Bridge was played the first part of the evening, and after lunch an enjoyable hour was spent in dancing. The last prizes were won by Mrs. Eli Moore and Robert Inglis, while the consolation prizes were awarded to Mrs. Parker and J. W. Somers.

Emil Wichmann, German world traveler, who is on a tour around the world collecting information with which to write a book was in Wetaskiwin on Wednesday, and left in the afternoon en route to Calgary. He left Germany in 1928 and has been in all the eastern parts of Europe as well as Greece, Monte Negro and Albania. He started his trip across Canada at Montreal, and after visiting Vancouver will tour the United States, visiting California and Mexico, and will proceed to South America, after which he will visit China. He plans to take several years to complete his tour. While in Wetaskiwin he obtained the signatures of Mayor B. D. Hewitt and J. E. Fraser, secretary-treasurer.

At a recent meeting of the Sciences Association of the University of Alberta, Dr. Rowan opened the discussion at the meeting by giving an account of observed cycles in the relative numbers of rabbits and mice to be found in the country.

The rabbits apparently gradually increase in numbers over a period of years, having large litters three or four times a year while their numbers are few, and finally having small litters only once a year when their numbers are large.

When the rabbits become very numerous a disease, whose cause at the present time is unknown, gets among them and the numbers are enormously reduced again in one or two years.

It is a question among scientists as to whether these animal cycles can or cannot be correlated with sunspot and climatic cycles.

"Why, I know him as well as I know you. Don't lend him a bean, old man."

Make Early Start in Preparations for Big August Athletic Meet

Next Monday evening the annual meeting of the Wetaskiwin Sports Association will be held in the Council Chamber at 8 o'clock. The Ladies' Amateur Athletic Club organizes for the season tomorrow evening. In the Council Chamber. While both these organizations have been very active during the past few seasons, this year they are assuming very great responsibilities in co-operative activities in connection with the Dominion Women's Track and Field Championships (and All Alberta Junior Track and Field Championships (three divisions—boys under 16, 16 and 14) to be held here in August.

In addition to the preparations for the above-mentioned two-day carnival of athletics, the Sports Association has many problems confronting it for the season. These will be given consideration at Monday evening's session, and in view particularly of the great importance to Wetaskiwin of the athletic meet in which world's champions and Canadian champions are expected to compete, it is hoped that the meetings tomorrow and Monday evenings will be largely attended, in order that re-organization for the year may be effected in a manner which will ensure unqualified success in the season's operations.

HILLSIDE U.F.A. WINS FINAL DEBATE IN LEAGUE

The final debate of the Wetaskiwin Riding U.F.A. Debating League took place in the U.F.A. hall, Wetaskiwin, on Monday evening last, by the representatives from Hillside U.F.A., who upheld the negative. The subject was: "Resolved that it would be in the best interest of the people of Alberta that all land and natural resources should be the property of the province, to be leased for actual use only."

The judges were Mrs. W. Ross, Mrs. Grant and Ed. Peterson, who rendered their decision in favor of the negative.

RABBIT AND OTHER CYCLES

At a recent meeting of the Sciences Association of the University of Alberta, Dr. Rowan opened the discussion at the meeting by giving an account of observed cycles in the relative numbers of rabbits and mice to be found in the country.

The rabbits apparently gradually increase in numbers over a period of years, having large litters three or four times a year while their numbers are few, and finally having small litters only once a year when their numbers are large.

When the rabbits become very numerous a disease, whose cause at the present time is unknown, gets among them and the numbers are enormously reduced again in one or two years.

It is a question among scientists as to whether these animal cycles can or cannot be correlated with sunspot and climatic cycles.

STEEL COACHES SAVE LIVES AS TRAIN WRECKED

Edmonton, April 13.—Derailment of the Continental Limited Canadian National Railway train, near Edson, Alberta, early Sunday morning, caused injury to 23 passengers and six members of the crew.

Railway investigators probed the cause of the derailment today, but a broken rail was believed responsible for the mishap.

Seven of the injured, one of whom is in a critical condition, are in hospital at Edson while the others resumed their journey westward after obtaining medical attention at the scene of the wreck.

When the train struck the track obstruction, the passengers were sleeping. Many were hurled from their berths. The heavy mountain locomotive and baggage car remained on the rails. The consist car left the rails but remained upright while the day coach, tourist sleeper, diner and a Pullman car plunged down a 30-foot embankment overturning as they went.

Since the inception of the relief programs arranged by the Dominion and Provincial governments and municipalities last autumn and up to and including March 31 last, a total of 37,794 persons have received relief in Alberta, according to figures released on Monday by Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works.

AUCTION BRINGS HIGH PRICES AT EDMONTON SALE

Edmonton, April 11.—Business organizations of Edmonton showed their appreciation for the spring show on Friday by purchasing at auction fat cattle entries, at prices averaging considerably higher than market quotations. Chief among these was the T. Eaton Company, buyers of the grand champion baby beef animal from Evelyn McMahon of Gadsby at 45 cents per pound, the animal weighing 680 pounds. Eaton's also bought the first prize steer in the girls' and boys' competition from Henry Magilton of Lacombe for 17½ cents. Other buyers included Burns and Company, Swift-Canadian Company and Gainers Limited.

A Calgary boy, Jack Hays, was victorious in the junior dairy calf feeding competition, his entry standing over 22 others when the judges finished their work. This class was one of the most attractive of the entire show, worthy representatives of four dairy breeds being shown by girls and boys who had studied well the fine points of showmanship. The four top positions were taken by Holsteins with three Jerseys next in line. Doreen Hosford of South Edmonton was second, another Calgary boy, Arthur Wellington, third, Irene Hosford, fourth, and members of the Pickard family of Wetaskiwin, fifth, sixth and seventh. In addition to his win in the class Jack Hays took three special prizes, Doreen Hosford a special for the best calf shown by a girl, and Hugh Hudson of Kathryn an award for the best dual purpose Shorthorn in the class.

Tom Hudson of Kathryn exhibited a Shorthorn steer to win first place for entries from his locality in the district competitions.

WETASKIWIN MAN SHOTS HIMSELF WEDNESDAY A.M.

A tragic affair took place about five miles south of Wetaskiwin early Wednesday morning, when Herbert Thorsen shot himself through the neck in what appears to be an attempt to take his own life. As the unfortunate man is well-to-do, the cause of the rash act cannot be ascertained, although for some time past he has been in poor health. He was rushed to the Wetaskiwin hospital, where it was found he is in a very dangerous condition.

With a splendid turn out of members, with Mr. Lindsay of Wetaskiwin as a guest, the Kiwanis Club held a most enjoyable meeting on Tuesday night. At the request of President J. E. Fraser, District Trustee V. C. French was asked to take the chair, and he conducted the duties in a most able and efficient manner.

The speaker of the evening was H. J. Montgomery, M.L.A., who gave a graphic account of the doings of the legislature at the recent session of the Provincial House. His address was strictly non-political and he gave the different view points of the members from all sides. A new session was always interesting, nearly half of the members being new to their duties. It was a great sport looking over to the opposite benches at first, wondering who was who and where from. There are thirty-nine supporters on the government side, with the opposition made up of eleven Liberals, six Conservatives, four Labor and three Independents, which, with Mrs. Parby, the only lady member, who was absent through illness, made a total of sixty-three.

He praised the able qualities of the speaker, Mr. Johnson, the member for Coronation, and said he had many difficult and knotty problems to decide upon. The discussion of the budget and voting on the estimates lasted from February 27th to March 19th, and the many criticisms had a good effect to the interim, as the Hon. Honday and Minister Craig and others at gatherings held since had explained how they had cut down the expense bill for officials' travel expenses and other economies.

Alberta is in a better position than Manitoba or Saskatchewan. The speaker explained the situation very fully and gave figures showing the financial position of the province. One interesting debate was the Wheat Pool guarantees. He dealt with the petition by prohibition parties re the beer parlors, and also spoke of the legislation passed. Other matters he dealt with were—Home Steads, Oils and Gas Wells, Old Age Pensions, School Bill, and consolidating the School Act. The greatest interest was taken, the galleries being filled every day, and it was a very interesting session.

The agricultural committee recommended the holding of two meetings in the country during the coming summer, places and dates to be announced later.

Mrs. Walker suffered shock and bruises and Mr. Smith's son had one hand rather severely hurt. The injured persons were brought to Camrose hospital by Max McCall, who was coming from Wetaskiwin. FREIGHT SERVICES VERSUS
TRUCK TRANSPORTATION

For some years the railways in Canada, the United States and Great Britain have been faced with a lessening in revenue from passenger traffic on short hauls, gradually increasing loss as the number of motorists grows due to the automobile, not only in the hands of the private owner but in the hands of those who, for charges closely approximating those of the railways, carry in buses passengers from point to point. This, and the service offered by bus lines is meant particularly, is apparently a situation which cannot be bettered from the point of view of the railroad as the service, stopping at closely located points to pick up or drop passengers, is one with which the steam roads would find it impossible to compete, and it is unquestionably more pleasant, in warm weather at any rate, to skim along the highways through the choicest farm lands and enter the cities upon boulevard streets through the residential districts than it is to travel in a passenger coach on rails through what is, in the older sections of the country at least, usually a less pleasing part of the countryside and enter the cities through crowded railway yards with one's view of the bleak walls of factories or warehouses obscured by smoke and soot.

While this situation is serious from the standpoint of the railways it is by no means the most serious phase of the competition growing through the use of large vans and freight trucks upon the highways for the transportation of loads of freight, large or small, between points already well served by the railways. This competition, if it is allowed to grow unchecked, will result in serious losses to the transportation companies with the resultant drastic cuts in service at no direct benefit to the people of the country who transfer their freight shipments from the steel rails and rolling stock of the railways to the rubber-tired, gasoline-driven freight vans of private individuals and the highways built, maintained and paid for by the taxpayers of the various provinces. It may be said, of course, that the public is entitled to competition from other forms of transportation, such as buses, trucks, etc., but, insofar as can be seen, the railroads of the country will provide the backbone of transportation for many years and such competition as that given by freight trucks driven over public highways to a comparatively small investment in rolling stock and no charge, or at best a small charge (license fee, etc.) for the use of the public highways, can scarcely be described as fair by even the most pronounced railway critic.

Last week The Review ordered by telephone from a warehouse in Regina a shipment of stock which was required. Instructions were given to have the shipment placed in the freight sheds so it would arrive in Weyburn the next day. Instead of following instructions the shipment was routed by freight van and it was delivered at the office upon the day required. The weight of the shipment was almost three hundred pounds. Instructions were at once sent from

WRIGLEYS

The Review to send future shipments by railway freight as in the past and these instructions will be followed.

This one shipment to Weyburn will not have much effect upon the rates or the service given at this point by the transportation companies or upon the rates or service of a local draying firm. But, if this shipment were multiplied by ten thousand then the effect would be felt. Men who are citizens of Weyburn, employees of the transportation companies, would be thrown out of work for a period of short time with resultant decrease in earnings and in purchasing power—a freight service which is now upon a daily basis might be changed to once or twice a week with impaired service to the local freight users—merchants and others in the community would still further feel the pinch of depression, and to what end?—furthering of unfair competition at public expense and the money, a portion of which would be spent in Weyburn, going to Regina freighters and gasoline depots in that city.

The Board of Trade has been active in securing a first-class train service for the city of Weyburn and has spent much time and effort upon it. It now remains for the freight ships of the city to use the railway facilities provided so that they will not be curtailed and so the freight business will ensure to the benefit of Weyburn instead of other points.—(Weyburn Review).

KNOWS HIS CHICKENS

A fed haired boy applied for a job as a butcher's helper. "How much will you give me?"
"Three dollars a week; but what can you do to make yourself useful around a butcher shop?"
"Anything."
"Well, be specific. Can you dress a chicken?"
"Not on $3 a week," said the boy.—New York Examiner.

Mother: "Why did you strike your little sister?"
Young Jack: "Well, we were playing Adam and Eve, and instead of tempting me with the apple, she ate it herself."

A VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE PROGRAM

(By Dr. H. E. Smith, University of Alberta)

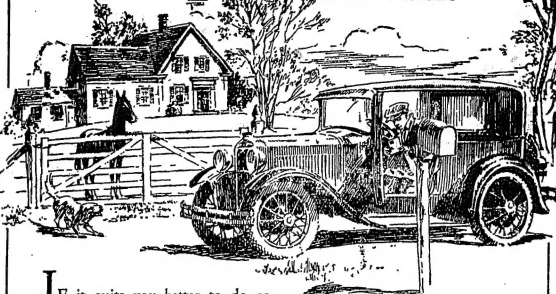

One of the most difficult choices which the modern youth has to make is that of a vocation. It is the rare child who seems by nature to be "cut out" for a particular life work. The majority evince no particular inclination in any direction. Few youths have more than a vague knowledge of the different possible occupations, their entrance requirements, their demands of time, energy and ability, their limitations, and their recompenses. Still fewer have the opportunity to gain any adequate range of experience in the several occupational activities.

A Threefold Program
It is recognized that the vocational needs of students should be met by the higher elementary and secondary schools. In the more progressive school systems the vocational guidance program is divided into three parts beginning in Grade VII, and continuing throughout high school.

First, a Study of Occupations is introduced as one of the regular courses for Grade VII. The purpose of the course is introductory and it gives actual information regarding the leading occupations. In some schools the work is based upon a textbook especially prepared for the purpose, and in other schools a syllabus is used.

The second part of the program consists of a course of Exploratory Occupational Studies. This is frequently a two-year course placed in Grades VIII and IX. It is definitely pre-vocational, and its purpose is orientation. It is designed to aid the pupil (1) in discovering himself, his interests and abilities, and (2) in choosing his field of usefulness in the work of the world. It is a "broadening and finding" course in which there is provided a sampling of many different vocations in order that the pupil may experience occupational activities as wide and varied in range as time and circumstances will permit. The ultimate purpose of the course is to provide for the pupil effective vocational guidance. At the same time it should create within every pupil an attitude of sympathetic understanding towards workers in all occupations, and should induce an appreciation of the dignity of labor.

Laboratories and workshops are provided as generously as finances will permit. In those occupations in which it is difficult to provide for actual experience an excellent substitute is found in visits to plants and places of work. Excursions to farms, shops, offices and factories are of great value if properly planned and if follow-up work is definitely provided in the way of discussion and review of the salient features observed.

Thumb Skelches
Nail Perspiration

EDISON began life as a newsboy and he has been busy ever since.

He was visited, so the story goes, by a young woman interested in his accomplishments and anxious to meet him personally. "To what do you attribute your success?" asked the lady. "Just work, madam," said Edison, "hard work and sticking to it."
"But, sir, you have genius," she ventured, "surely that has something to do with it."
The great man's reply was typical. He replied, slowly, "Perhaps so! Perhaps so! But then, you see, my particular brand of genius is one per cent, inspiration and ninety-nine per cent, perspiration."

"Uh-hu," said the miss, and she went home to think it over. Many business men and many farmers who have made a success of their undertakings might with truth reply in the same way. We are living in a fast age. Competition is keener than it ever was before. The man who climbs even half way up the hill of complete success must rustle during every minute of the working hour and spend his leisure moments in healthful recreation. The rule is universal. Mighty little advantages come by chance and that mighty little is lamentably transitory. To the farmer, more than most others it is especially applicable. He works so much under conditions over which he has little or no control. He may choose the best of seed and if he has a lot of common sense, a little money, and a little knowledge of soil conditions, he may get hold of some good land and cultivate it well. After he has done this he is pretty nearly through till harvest time. The winds, the rain and the sunshine—sometimes the lack of them—will do the rest. The crop grower must have a lot of leisure time on his hands. Oh, yes, that's what you are thinking, but you are asking the question of the inexperienced. The perspiration comes as honestly, and as profusely—often more profusely during the waiting period as during the toil of seeding time. You never really saw black hail clouds poking their noses up above the horizon, or the thermometer drop when the wheat was "in the milk," or the oak stock wither and fall to the ground. Common experiences of this kind attract the farmer to his hands. So from time to time agriculturalists get together and talk things over. Just now they are planning the most representative gathering of crop producers and others interested over held. Farmers from all over the world are going to meet at Regina in 1932. What for? Well, they have an idea that by so doing they may discover some means of reducing the unnecessary flow of perspiration.

OLD-TIME GIRLS

(Walt Mason)

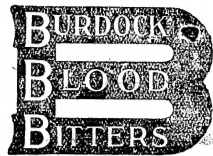

Old-time girls were not athletic, boasting not of pep and might; they were languid and pathetic, staying in the house by night; they took much delight in crooning churchyard ballads, when not swooning, and the youth who went a-swooning must be proper and polite. Old-time girls were prone to fainting if the suitors grew too bold; and they spent much time in painting landscapes frightful to behold, and they wouldn't go forth walking without "a certain beldam" talking, lest they make their parents scold. Old-time girls had ample tresses, raven black or brightly pale, and their long and spreading dresses swept the sidewalks like a gale; and their gowns had so much quilting that in summer they were willing, even when they did their litting of the poor lost Lily Dale. Old-time girls had stately carriage, they were daisies, they were dears, and their plans were all for marriage, and they yearned for no careers; life was pretty rocky sledding for the damsel who was trading to the grave without a wedding, though she talked of "woman's spheres." Old-time girls were all in training for the job as household queen, and their dreams were all of reigning in the calm domestic scene, with fat husbands growing fatter and a lot of coin to scatter, and the bright and merry chatter of nine children or fourteen. Bless their hearts, they're all departed and we'll see them never more; and old men are heavy-hearted, thinking of the days of yore; now the women are the bosses and the men are total losses, and they sadly bear their crosses with their necks and shoulders sore.

A married man, much against his own inclination, had to attend a fancy dress ball with his wife.

He was dressed as the Roman, but soon found the short, airy, robes very draughty. Peeling thoroughly disgusted, he sat in a corridor.

A fair young thing, anxious to air her knowledge of Roman historical heroes, said brightly: "Ah! You are Appian Claudius."

"No, I'm not," he retorted. "I'm miserable as hell."—Efficiency Mag.

Her Face.
Was Covered
With Pimples

What is necessary for all those troubled with pimples and other facial blemishes is to put their blood in a good condition by banishing all the blood impurities from the system.

Miss Annie Patric, Round Hill, Alta., writes: "My face was covered with pimples, and my eyes were always dull. A friend told me to use Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking the first bottle my face had improved, and when I had finished the second one I could not find a pimple on my face, and my complexion was very much improved."

"I'll have it with hot milk, my dear. It's a bit chilly out doors, and I want something to warm me up. It certainly is great the way you can serve Shredded Wheat as either a hot or cold cereal—and just as easily either way. Fickle spring can't fool us, can she? #### BLOOD PURIFIERS

We often hear persons speak of their blood as being thin or in a bad condition, and this, most frequently, in the spring of the year.

There is a popular belief that when spring comes, the body should be given a purge to rid it of the poisons which are supposed to have accumulated during the winter, and to follow this by a tonic to purify the blood.

It is true that by the time the spring comes, there are a number of people who do not feel well. They are all tired out, and their appearance answers the description they give of themselves. No wonder they feel miserably and look it! For months, they have led the kind of life which would make anyone lose his health. They shut themselves in to hot rooms with no ventilation, take no exercise, never go out into the fresh air, and eat just as much as they do when they are active during the summer. It is bad habits of living during the winter months which cause the trouble; the blood has nothing to do with it.

Prevention is better than cure, but if you have not been taking reasonable care of your health during the winter and you are now feeling the results of your carelessness, you will want to know what you should do.

The only way to get back what you have lost is by paying attention to the points you have neglected. Health which you have lost by your indifference will not be regained by the use of "spring tonics." Health is found in fresh air, exercise and attention to the diet.

The body is quite capable of ridding itself of its waste material if it is given half a chance. Use water internally and externally. Take a warm bath at least once a week to help the skin to function properly. Drink a glass or two of water before breakfast and between each meal to help elimination. Cultivate regular toilet habits. Fresh cool air acts as a stimulant for the whole body and, together with sunshine, is nature's own spring tonic.

The body cannot be healthy unless it is kept in good running order by exercise. The big muscles of the body must be kept in condition by use. Whether it is work or play which brings them into use does not matter so long as they are used.

But according to the work you are doing. Let your diet consist of a wide variety of foods, and remember that milk, green vegetables and fruits should be used regularly.

The blood is as clean and pure in the springtime as it is at any other time. Alterations in the blood are brought about by certain diseases, but not by the seasons of the year. Blood purifiers are not required. What is needed, and all that is needed, is healthy living.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

PAIN

We are not to seek pain, but when it is sent to us we are not to fret and rumble at it, but try and go cheerfully along, as though we did not feel it. It is for our good our purification—for nothing is so purifying as pain, if it is rightly borne.

COMMUNICATION

[We do not necessarily endorse the sentiments advanced by this or any other correspondent under this heading.—Ed.]

To The Editor of The Times.

Dear Sir: Would you kindly publish the following in reply to Mr. Ballhorn's answer to my previous letter.

Mr. Ballhorn states I attempted to create trouble re the borrowing powers of our Council. I have no such recollection of attempting such, but since he has been so thoughtful in mentioning same, perhaps in the following he may find some of that same trouble.

What system of financing is adopted in our Municipal office? Does Mr. Ballhorn adopt the same system in regard to his farming operations as to our Municipality? He certainly does not, or he would not be there on that farm. Does he think for one moment that the ratepayers of this Municipality think that it costs $1419.17 to finance $40,000 for six months? Of course it may, and does, as he does it, and because he happens to be a larger taxpayer than the writer of this article, does not in any way prove his system to be infallible. If friend Ballhorn desires $1000 loan from the bank for some work on his farm in October, does he borrow that money in April and leave it in the bank, and pay 7% interest on it for six months? He certainly does not. He draws that loan on the 1st of October and pays interest for one month, not six. Applying the same principle to the borrowings of the Council, and borrowing as needed per month, at the rate of one-sixth of $40,000 per month, even allowing for an extra increase of 1% in the interest rate, I find on that system a saving in interest alone of $485.85, and if the present system has been in vogue very long and many $40,000 borrowed, it does not need any wizard of finance to inform the ratepayers of this Municipality in regard to the amount of money it has lost through lack of proper financing. Also taking the number of ratepayers in the Municipality at 1000 and multiplying that $3610.37 by the average mill rate (last year 16) I find that it brings the total revenue to about $57,765.92, and according to Mr. Ballhorn the mill rate when set will bring a reduction of $12,000. Is he aware that this means practically a reduction of from $11 to $13 per head on the basis of the above number of ratepayers, I hope it is not a mistake, but a lot more of the ratepayers, I'm from Missouri. The mill rate struck will tell the tale.

Also I notice in a recent issue of The Times a gift of $1000 to the hospital. What is this? If it is to relieve this Municipality of all obligations in regard to indigent patients passing through said hospital, then all well and good, but if it is a gift pure and simple, then this Municipality is not in a position to give same, and if Mr. Ballhorn is still a member of the Hospital Board, I doubt the legality of the gift. And it would be just as well to hear how the average of $1,000 is struck if to be paid for services rendered.

The fact that you are a larger taxpayer than the writer, gives you no more right to squander promiscuously the funds of this Municipality as it may be a lot easier for you to pay your $500 taxes than for me to contribute my $60.

This letter may be timely, as aren't you the same Mr. Ballhorn who was in favor a year or so ago of floating a $100,000 debenture at 6% to make the roads nice and thoughtfully for your car, and, of course, incidentally, for others. We cannot afford that either, as witness a statement by Mr.

DEPRESSION

"I'm a different woman"

"Two years ago I began to get depressed, and everything was too much trouble for me. I was a misery to myself and everyone around me. I was advised to take Kruschen by my friends who said it was the same as Kruschen but it did me no good, so at last my husband got me a bottle of Kruschen and no one would realize the different woman I am. I have been taking Kruschen now constantly for two years. My daughter also would not be without it. I have got my neighbour to take Kruschen as well and she has found its worth as she feels a different woman."

The commonest cause of depression is partial constipation—an insidious complaint because the sufferer is seldom aware of it. It means the gradual accumulation of body poisons which dull the mind, damp the spirits, sap the nervous strength and lower the whole vitality.

Kruschen Salts make constipation impossible. Therefore, if you keep to Kruschen you need never know the meaning of melancholy; never feel "nervy" or depressed.

Nursery Suppers

(By Barbara B. Brooks)

All day long these gangsters of the tiny world have played—first in the nursery, tugging at scooters and piling wooden blocks into miniature citadels—then in the sunshine, outdoors, chasing Buster, the faithful puppy and pulling twigs off mother's best bushes. How much energy they expend during the day! It is no wonder that supper time is sleepy time and that soon after the little ones are fed the sandman will come.

The wise mother knows that the place for supper for the child is in the nursery—not at the dinner table with the grown-ups. The evening meal of a child should be simple, easily digested and eaten in an atmosphere of peace and quiet. The dinner table of adults holds many allurement which may excite the child and disturb his rest during the night. There is always food which is forbidden and there may be guests who feel it their duty to pay lots of attention to the younger generation. Nursery suppers are much better.

Foods which may participate on nursery supper menus are:

Minard's "King of Pain"
Liniment. It "kicks" blemishes.
Antiseptic, soothing, healing.
Gives quick relief!

MINARD'S
"KING OF PAIN"
LINIMENT

1. Cereals—with fruit and milk.
2. Soups—creamed or plain.
3. Sandwiches—whole wheat bread with simple fillings.
4. Simple desserts—fruit, custards, cookies.
5. Milk or cocoa.

Dry cereals are a boon to busy mothers. They are always on hand and ready to serve. Children like their crispness and they provide a way of adding milk to the meal.

The following dishes may be incorporated easily on such menus:

1. Caramel Custard—4 cups scalded milk, 4 eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup sugar. Put sugar in omelet pan, stir constantly over flame until melted to a syrup of light brown color. Add milk gradually being careful that milk does not bubble up and go over on account of high temperature of sugar. As soon as sugar is melted in milk, add mixture gradually to eggs slightly beaten; add salt and flavoring, then strain into buttered mold, or cups. Set cups in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: 24 3-inch cookies.

Sandwich Filling Suggestions

1. ½ cup grated carrot; 1 tablespoon honey; few grains of salt.
2. ½ cup dried beef, ground; 2 tablespoons grated cheese; 1 tablespoon tomato soup.
3. Peanut butter and honey.
4. Chopped raw spinach, hard cooked eggs and mayonnaise.
5. Banana (crushed), corn flakes and honey.

Corn Flake Date Cookies—1 pound dates, 1 cup sugar, ¼ cup water, ¼ cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons grated orange peel. Remove the seeds from the dates and boil dates, sugar, water, orange juice and grated orange peel until soft paste is formed. 1 cup shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups corn flakes. Cream the shortening, add the sugar and beat thoroughly. Add the flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder and salt, then the water and last the corn flakes. Roll the cookie dough thin (about 3/16 in. thick) and cut in rounds. Spread one round with the date mixture and put a second round on top, pressing the edges together. Bake on greased baking sheet in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: 24 3-inch cookies.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically, from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bigarated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bigarated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrector, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bigarated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

Advertise in the paper that circulates all over the district thoroughly.

FALUN

Miss Klappenstein of the Camrose Normal School is practicing-teaching here this week.

The boys are as enthusiastic as ever over the opening of the football season and are busy organizing their team as well as making preparations for other lines of sport.

A large crowd turned out to the party at D. Cronin's last Saturday and a good time was had by all. Eight tables of "500" were played upstairs as the younger folks chose to spend the evening at dancing on the parlor floor down. Prizes were won by Mrs. F. Kadlec and Mr. O. Nelson; consolation, Mrs. Jones and Mr. Jones. Carl Hanson was not present but he held the nearest correct estimate on the odds, thus winning the 10 bushels given by the W.L. Sounds like a repetition of last year when he also won the fruit cake given by the same organization. Perhaps next year Mr. Hanson will be given the chance of winning a housekeeper as he is quite an eligible bachelor. We must not forget to mention the fact that our amusing "Joker" was present as usual. He never fails to give us plenty of entertainment at our social gatherings, especially card parties. Lunch was served at midnight by the members of the W.L.

BITTERN LAKE RESIDENTS CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Haselwood of Bittern Lake was the scene of an interesting event on Tuesday afternoon, April 7th, when one hundred guests assembled to celebrate the golden wedding of these highly esteemed citizens. Ven. Archdeacon George Howcroft, on behalf of the assembled friends, made the presentation of a purse of gold, and read the following address:

"To Mr. and Mrs. Haselwood—on this auspicious occasion of your wedding day, your many friends are delighted to have the privilege of greeting you, and of extending our congratulations and most sincere wishes that you may be spared to spend many happy years together. Thirty-four years ago you left England and came to this western part of the great Dominion of Canada, bravely facing the hardships and privations inevitable to the pioneer, and, by perseverance, industry and thrift, have succeeded in building up a new home in the land of your adoption. During this time you have made many friends and won the respect and esteem of all your neighbors and acquaintances. We ask you to accept this gift as a token of affection and esteem with the earnest hope that God's richest blessing may continue to rest upon you."

A lovely bouquet of roses was presented by Mrs. C. T. C. Roper. Mr. J. G. Baker, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Haselwood, made a fitting reply on their behalf, after which Mrs. Haselwood gave some very interesting reminiscences of their early experiences. Refreshments were served, Mrs. J. Butcher and Mrs. R. W. Husband presiding at the table.

Among those present were: Mr. E. Haselwood, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Haselwood, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hayfield, Mrs. J. Lomas, Miss R. E. Lomas, Mr. W. K. Lomas, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lomas, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lomas, J. Hayfield, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. C. Roper, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Husband, Miss R. L.

LONE RIDGE LOCAL, U.F.A.

The regular monthly meeting was held at the Brightview store on Thursday, 9th inst. About forty members, friends, and visitors were present. In addition to the regular business the Wetaskiwin Constituency Debating League came up for discussion and a series of suggestions for improving the league for next season were put in the form of a resolution to be forwarded to the league committee for their consideration. Following the business part of the meeting a social hour was much enjoyed by those present.

Violin solos by Miss Doris Klappenstein were much appreciated as were also vocal solos by Mrs. Allen, accompanied by Mrs. Johnstone on the guitar, and Mrs. Wallis, accompanied by Miss Klappenstein on the violin. Miss Lily Stevens gave a humorous recitation, causing great merriment, and Mr. T. S. Steedman with his humorous French-Canadian recitations also contributed to the success of a very pleasant evening.

The evening was brought to a close with a lunch served by the ladies. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. O. A. Albert on May 12th when some special attractions will be provided.

COMMUNICATION

[We do not necessarily endorse the sentiments advanced by this or any other correspondent under this heading.—Ed.]

To the Editor of The Times:

It may be interesting for our friends in Wetaskiwin to learn something about our trip from Canada to Texas. We left Wetaskiwin on Sunday, October 10th, and it seemed we had good reason to leave because we had 20 degrees below zero to bid adieu. We stayed in Cochrane that night and in the morning we started for the Rockies. The snow-capped mountains were magnificent with the great Alberta sun sending its rays down upon them. Going west from Banff we came into an almost impassable snow belt. There were 10 inches of snow on the road which made it necessary to drive in low gear in many places. That night we stayed in Radium Springs and had a swim in their open pool. The people here think that quite a fish story. From Radium Springs we had good roads all the way to Cranbrook, and it was so cloudy that we could not enjoy the scenery as well as we might have. On the 21st we left Cranbrook and the large mountains. We reached Estop, Idaho, about noon-time and after having our car inspected we continued our journey towards Spokane. The following night we stayed in Walla Walla, Washington, and owing to a rainy spell we stayed there for a couple of days. On the 24th we followed the Columbia highway to Portland. This highway is said to be the eighth wonder of the world, and there is certainly some of the finest scenery in America along this road. Continuing from Portland we went to Oakland and from there we followed the Pacific Coast Highway to Los Angeles where we watched on every succeeding polo game.

From there we went east along the Old Spanish Trail. It neither seemed to be old or Spanish, for it was a good paved highway. On the 1st of November we reached Yuma, Arizona, a place noted for its sunshine. A certain restaurant has the sign: "Free Meals Every Day the Sun Doesn't Shine." They have had that sign for 16 years, and haven't had occasion to give away a free meal yet. This city was mostly inhabited by Mexicans. From Yuma we continued to El Paso, Texas. Even though we were nearly 1000 miles from home it seemed a welcome to be back in good old Texas again.

The tires must have had it in for us that day because we had eight flat tires all the way. We were, however, thankful that this quickly day came down here in the sunny south.

On nearing our destination we were met by rain, a thing we saw very little of during the trip.

On November 6th we reached our home in the Rio Grande Valley and found the oranges, lemons and grapefruit just ready to eat. The valley has the best grapefruit in America and the reason for having such good grapefruit is because we have the best soil and climate for such fruit. Our main crops here are fruit, cotton and vegetables. We have over 6,000,000 fruit trees here and are showing California some good competition. Our crops are much earlier than theirs, so in this way our fruits and vegetables are the first on the water market.

Not wanting to take up any more space with my letter, I will close, wishing you all a very prosperous 1931.

Yours sincerely,

CLARENCE VASSBERG.

DISTRICT CORRESPONDENTS

It may be that the country correspondents of a weekly newspaper are not sensible of the service they are rendering the community in which they live. Week in and week out, they contribute their budget of news which is the mirror of the daily happenings in the whole community. Without the correspondents' weekly news that paper would be like a dinner with the dishes left out and the community like a church service with the choir on holidays.

Not only the citizens in the town where the paper is published find interest in the doings of their country cousins but also every resident in the town or village from where the budget comes is a devoted consumer of the weekly news. Every little happening has its human interest. The arrival of the first born, the marriage of a popular couple, the passing of a pioneer, the home coming of a favorite son or daughter, the coming or going of visitors, the little incidents from week to week which perhaps have no outside bearing are all of vital moments and are important factors in the life of the community. Therefore let us have more country correspondence.—Exchange.

SPORT

MARKER IS NAMED
AMERICAN LEAGUE
A.L.-STAR TEAM

The Tulsa World, with the advice of five coaches has picked this year's American League All-Star hockey team. Gus Marker, although not a choice for the first line, nevertheless ranks high and has been named for the right wing post on the second string.

The Chicago Tribune has also chosen an All-Star team and again Marker has been named for the right wing position on the second line-up. The Tribune has this to say about the second team: "We feel that the first six stands head and shoulders above the second choice. That statement is not intended to minimize the abilities of the second squad members, but rather is made to convey the idea of the formidableness of the first team. The wings on the second team, Gus. Marker and Mike Goodman, are fast and colorful, and can do about everything on the ice.—Camrose Canadian.

August is a former Wetaskiwin boy who started his hockey career on the sloughs in this community, and his friends here are now glad to know he is a "top-notch" player.

FOOTBALL

The first football game of the season will be played on Saturday of this week between Ponoka and Wetaskiwin on the athletic grounds here. The game is called for 6:30. As Wetaskiwin will put a good team in the field, and have joined the Central Alberta League, it is urged that there be a good attendance to encourage the boys to develop this line of popular sport.

WETASKIWIN GOLF CLUB

The following officers were elected at a meeting of the Wetaskiwin Golf Club held recently:
President—J. W. Somers.
Vice-president—H. W. Wright.
Secretary-treasurer—E. Schmitz.
Chairman of Greens' Committee—J. S. Orr.
Chairman of Membership Committee—A. J. Taylor.

BASEBALL

We understand that an effort will be made this spring to have Wetaskiwin lined up in a league, and all enthusiasts of this popular summer sport trust that this can be arranged. Wetaskiwin put in a good team on the diamond last season, and nearly all of last year's players as well as some new material will likely wear a Wetaskiwin uniform this year. Practising has commenced and it will soon be known who will be available to represent Wetaskiwin on the baseball field during the coming season.

3 RULES big help to BOWELS

What a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour every day.

Even one's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning-out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This famous doctor's prescription is just fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin, and other helpful ingredients that couldn't hurt a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! It's good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous waste matter.

The Buying Power of a Dollar To-day

THE AMOUNT PURCHASABLE FOR A DOLLAR has varied greatly in the past 16 years. In 1914 a dollar was a fair proportion of the cost of a pair of shoes; or a bag of sugar; would buy meat for a few days and was about 75% of the average man's daily wage. And dollars were scarce in 1914 at that.

DURING THE WAR-BOOM YEARS a dollar held the equivalent relative value of a five cent piece in 1914 in the minds of many, although its actual buying power had only decreased about 75% as wages increased.

WITH A FEW FLUCTUATIONS the dollar has remained fairly stable since 1921. But some class or profession always find that "their" dollar is not buying as much as other people's dollars do—

IN THE UNITED STATES TODAY a Senator from the West says that the Smoot-Hawley tariff policy has been ruinous to the farmers and that the farmer's dollar does not go nearly as far as it used to. Whereupon, one newspaper says "a lot of dollars meant for farmers have been getting around to the rest of us."

THERE HAS ALWAYS BEEN, however, one commodity in the purchase of which your dollar brought just as much—Your local newspaper.

With a subscription price designed to meet ordinary requirements, it did not soar when everything else hit unprecedented price heights—even the paper, ink and workmanship which entered into it—but brought all the extra service and news faithfully. And the price is still the same—$2.00 in advance.

AN EASY WAY to earn 20 per cent on your money is to keep your subscription paid in advance by watching the label, which bears the date on which your subscription expires, carefully, fully, every week. By the way it may be due now. Be sure—

"Look at the Label!"

Pots and Pans Patty

(By Sara J. Wardel)

Patty sat at her desk in the order-isn't a matrimonial bureau, you little office and gloated over her white card in her hand. Park avenue trade at last. Something worthy of Homemaker Inc. She'd take the job. Just whatever it proved to be, herself. No sense running a risk with her newly trained staff of workers.

She pushed the buzzer for her secretary with an efficient jab of one rosy-tipped but not too redly manicured finger.

"Show Mr. Bruce in, Miss Thomas," she ordered in the crisp manner of a high-powered executive.

R. Livingstone Bruce proved to be young, blonde and good looking. But at the moment he was distinctly worried about something. Upon his square well-favored shoulders he carried the weight of the world.

"I have a peculiar problem for you, Miss Austin. I don't suppose it's exactly ethical, but that hardly matters in the present emergency. I've come—" he paused distressfully—"to rent a wife."

It was proof of Patty's efficiency that she did not bat an eyelid. She merely drew squares and circles on the sheet of paper in front of her instead.

"Suppose you explain yourself more clearly," she suggested. "This showing a fit and frightening me into doing what she wants. It isn't as if she didn't have dad at home. She's not lonely. She just wants to tie me to her apron strings to satisfy her vanity. It's not fair to me. And it's not good for her. I won't have it, I tell you."

Patty felt sorry for him. He was so young and so obviously troubled. "So I've thought of this way out. If she thinks I'm married it may cure her. I know it sounds brutal, but honestly it's the kindest way out for all of us. Then I saw your ad—Homemaker Inc. You said that you specialized in supplying efficient homemakers for bachelors, widowers and motherless homes. So I thought that maybe you could help me. Naturally I'd want a thoroughly nice girl, someone whom I could be proud to introduce as my wife. Like yourself, for instance."

Patty meant to keep her dimple firmly in check, but it got away from her. She pulled it in instantly, however.

"Frankly, Mr. Bruce, my advice would be to pick out some attractive girl whom you really like and take a little jaunt down to the City Hall with her. It would solve the whole problem for you permanently."

She thought, but she did not add, that he was apparently in need of someone to look after him. Why, he might be arrested for going around and proposing crazy schemes like this.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," she said impulsively. "I'll take on the job of putting the place in shape. It's bound to need little feminine touches. A man's apartment always looks like the frigid wastes of the Antarctic. How much time have you?"

"A week."

The frown between his eyes had vanished, but it reappeared at her next sentence.

"In the meantime you'd better get busy and scare up some one else for the wife. This is a respectable business house, Mr. Bruce. We do not engage in impractical transactions. And now if you will let me make an appointment to look over your premises—tomorrow morning at 10 would do very nicely for me."

"It's the best you can do," he was saying unhappily, twisting his hat. "But perhaps you will change your mind. Really, I'm not so bad, Miss Austin. But I'm desperate. I'm just getting ahead with my work and I won't be dragged away from it."

"Tomorrow at 10, then."

Patty's cool voice ended the interview.

"I think we can make the background sufficiently homelike to satisfy the most old-fashioned mother. The rest of it, I'm afraid, is up to you."

She rang the buzzer again and nodded formally. R. Livingstone Bruce found himself outside the door marked private. He whistled softly under his breath. For from being a mournful sound, it was astonishingly cheerful. R. Livingstone Bruce had great faith in his own powers of persuasion. Extreme youth and blonde good looks are apt to make an optimistic of any man.

He would have been interested, but not surprised to know that behind the closed white door Patty was not thinking immediately to the realms of business her manner had suggested. For the moment she was still inscribing figures on an already over-crowded ad paper. Then she flashed out a compact and studied her face in the small mirror, anxiously. Why did she, oh, why did she persist in reminding men of a wife? It was the last thing she wanted to be.

Patty had learned her lesson well. Having spent her first ten years listening to her parents quarrel themselves into untimely graves and her second ten years over a pile of greasy dishes in her sister's overrun household, she had her opinion of matrimony. Wives were just unpaid servants. Patty preferred her wages, not to mention her peace of mind.

Her mother and father had never agreed on any conceivable topic. As a girl her mother had seemed such a week as an expert typist—good wages in those days. She could never get used to asking her husband for every penny that he doled out so begrudgingly with the invariable and gloomy "What for?" Yet she made a good home for him. Baked and swept and laundered the curtains; washed windows and polished brass; tended the children and made little dresses for them; sewed buttons on her husband's shirts, mended his socks, set her alarm clock for 5:30 every morning. An unpaid servant, thought Patty grimly. No pretty clothes, no good times. It was all very dim and long ago to her now, but she still bitterly resented the way life had cheated her mother.

Patty's share of Norma's domesticity was recent and more vivid. Only in the last year had she brought herself to break away from the shabby little family home in the Bronx. The cheque she was able to send Norma and Harry every month more than compensated for losing her. She had been merely another month to feed. Harry made only $35 a week and there were three babies. If one of them was not crying, invariably the other two were. Harry and Norma loved each other—once. Perhaps they still did. But poverty is a poor tonic for romance.

Not for her, reflected Patty grimly. From the start to the finish. Unfortunately, or so it seemed at first, she had only one talent, a positive genius for homemaking. Laughingly, the family called her Pots-and-Pans Patty. What she could do with a big spoon, a dab of flour, a drop of milk, a sprinkle of cinnamon and butter was the slight wonder of the world. She had been able to work miracles of love and beauty in even Norma's bare little home. Cheesecloth curtains dyed a soul-satisfying shade of orange, wholesome meals on next to nothing; the flick of a paint brush, transforming a scarred old bureau into an ugly chair.

But she refused to sell her gift for a wedding ring. There had been plenty of chances. Not for nothing a blue-black mop of hair and matching eyes, three kissable dimples, a pair of dancing heels. A little girl was Patty, and men are moved to tuck such women under their arms for keeps.

Patty was modern. Patty had brains. Patty was hard-boiled. In the end she solved the problem by capitalizing her gift. Ironically she determined to make the world pay for it. Instead of putting it in hook for orange blossoms, she put it on sale for cash.

"Homemaker Inc.," read the sign her office door and already she and her staff of workers had brought sunshine, paid for weekly in advance, to a score of distraught masculine households. Professional men who hated to eat in restaurants, actors who slept all morning but wanted someone to launder their silk socks and put their apartments in order for after-theatre festivities, motherless homes where harassed fathers enjoyed coming in from the office to a good dinner and a family of well-bred children. Oh, it was fun being a wife to all the world and actually getting paid for it!

And here was a young man, anxious to pay for a wife on a slightly more personal footing. Patty frowned and snapped her compact shut.

"Don't let your sympathies run away with you," she advised herself sternly. "He's just one more good-looking, over-grown, thoroughly spoiled child. The kind you'd better avoid. Better send Miss Stevens out on that job."

Miss Stevens was forty and immune. But Patty did not send her to the Park Avenue address the next morning. She went herself, looking ridiculously young in the trim blue suit which was horribly expensive and represented one of the reasons for being a paid rather than an unpaid servant to mankind.

Mr. Bruce's apartment was gorgeous, but, as she expected, totally lacking in the sort of thing a homeloving, old-fashioned woman would expect from her son's wife. It had been interior-decorated by a Fifth Avenue firm noted chiefly for its high prices. She could charge him well for her services then. Apparently the boy had money. But how? She asked him frankly what he did for a living. His answer was embarrassed.

"I, oh, I write—" he stammered.

Poor kid! Another would-be literary star in an already overcrowded firmament! The money must belong to his folks, then. Again she felt a sinking of shame. Haste he rolled them. She had a notion to throw over the job before it was to late. He must have read her mind.

"Of course I'm not selling much yet. But my uncle left me some money last year. That's what gave me the courage to break away from home. I'm investing it in getting a start. You can go ahead and spend all you need to fix the place up right."

His gesture took in the elaborately modernistic living-room with its ivory upholstered chairs and silver rugs. The only discordant note was the portable typewriter by the window, a paper weight holding down a collection of crumpled yellow sheets of paper, whilst an ashtray staggered under its load of hair-burned cigarettes.

"I'm afraid we shall have to dispose of most of this," said Patty. "Is there any place you can store it? Your mother would hardly take to modernism."

Beautiful Ontario Summer Camps Call

Unrivalled for its scenic splendor, the beauty of its lakes and streams and their world-wide reputation as fishing-grounds, Ontario offers the holiday-seeker as fine territory as any to be found on the American Continent. Bungalow-camps bring practically virgin areas within easy reach of the disciples of Isaac Walton, with handy connections from Toronto and other points by Canadian Pacific Railway lines. These camps are a combination of the lure of the wilderness with the comforts of civilization and consist of individual "camps" or sleeping-cottages, centred on a dining and recreation hall. Modern furniture and conveniences predominate, and thus the individual or family seeking a country vacation find golf, tennis, hiking, swimming, sailing, canoeing, motor-boating and dancing for their amusement, apart from a wide variety of fishing, which may be carried out, either in the vicinity of the camps themselves, or back in the hinterland, with competent guides, who also act as servants. On the main trans-continental line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, three such camps are found in the Province of Ontario.

At French River, 215 miles north of Toronto, within a stone's throw of the railway station, there is a well-found camp, which offers muskellunge and great northern pike to the fisherman. At Nipigon, 22-hours run from Toronto, trout, pike and pickerel are the principal offerings and at the Devil's Gap, Kenora, Lake of the Woods, Ontario, 126 miles east of Winnipeg, the famous Canadian black bass offers sport such as anglers dream of, but rarely get. All these camps combine the excellent features already referred to and are visited by fishermen, tourists and holidaying families from all quarters of the globe, each summer. They have a thoroughly enjoyable and thrilling holiday time and return each season in ever increasing numbers. They are part of a great system of such installation operated in connection with the railway for the purpose of taking people to nature and yet giving them the same standards of accommodation and service as are found elsewhere throughout its system. The pictures show: (1) A scene at the Devil's Gap Bungalow Camp, (2) A typical fishing great northern pike, (3) Home-coming at French River, (4) One for the train-crowd on a fair angler at Nipigon.

MEDITATION FOR THIS WEEK

"The Son of Man is come—"
Jesus revealed to us the cardinal principle of true Christian living—reverence for personality. His final verdict is, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto Me."

The real judgment is: What does a man see in his fellow men? Does he see what God put there and does he act towards his fellow man accordingly? Does he behave to him as if he had seen in his face—when he is in disgrace, when he is down in sin—does he see in his face even then—the inhumanity of the Son of Man? In this world, man is the highest sanctity. Churches and states, markets and schools, knowledge and beauty, the world and all that is in it exist for the sake of man and not man for theirs. The incarnation was a revelation at once of God and man. When God assumed human personality He made it forever a holy thing, to be henceforth the object of a reverence skin to that which we owe to God himself.

I dare not slight the stranger at my gate,
Threshing of garb, and sorrowful of lot,
Least it be Christ that stands, and goes His way
Because I, all unworthy, knew Him not.

Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is begotten of God, and knoweth God.—(1 John, 4:7) along like a faithful puppy, resting on his walking stick and frowning over whether his mother would prefer her son's wife to choose pink as the color scheme for the bedroom or blue. Naturally the narrow cot had to go. Patty had forgotten to measure the wall and was worried whether twin beds would fit into the space.

POTS AND PANS PATTY

"Mother's sort of old-fashioned," stammered R. Livingstone Bruce. "She has a double bed at home. Wouldn't that be better?"

"Patty," said Patty, furious at herself for blushing. "After all, it's your mother and your bride."

Having selected a "God Bless Our Home" motto elaborately wreathed with young angels, a set of wicker furniture for the living-room and a housewife's collection of pots and pans, they decided to call it a day and stop for lunch. The gentleman in the case suggested an expensive restaurant, and the lady who passionately adored the niceties of life, was about to agree with him when she re-decided in favor of a more modest place. Patty never knew exactly why, but it had something to do with spending sums of money foolishly and a certain pig-headed overgrown kid who needed mothering even if he was trying to escape the person best qualified to do it.

Later they staggered back to the apartment, R. Livingstone Bruce lugging a wrought-iron fern stand and Patty nursing along a canary cage. It seemed that Mr. Bruce's mother adored flowers and birds. The perfect wife must show similar weaknesses. Patty began to like the woman whom her client was still urging her to adopt as an in-law.

Patty, held out for a week. In the end she gave in for purely esthetic reasons. Patty was something of an artist. Having set the scene perfectly it was impossible to think of having some one else bungle things. Even the money had become relatively unimportant. It was the smiling apartment that won her.

It said so unmistakably. "Step in here if you no longer believe in happy homes. See, I am old-fashioned enough to boast a mahogany chair and a cut-glass vase full of real daisies. My little clock secretes a cheerful cuckoo bird. There are lace ties on the backs of all my chairs and little marble statuettes on my mantelpiece. But a pair of manly slippers in waiting before my hearth and the velvet hassock make it easy for a little wife to rest her head upon a rough tweed knee. The good smells drifting from my oven are pot roast and spicy brown gingerbread. Come in, I pray you, and rest a while!"

R. Livingstone Bruce had been able to get hold of only such imperfect substitutes for the role. He brought them in at various times for her inspection. Cheap, lawdy little girls with red lips and too tired eyes. Thin, hungry girls whom he afterward fed and dismissed. Girls who murdered the English language and talked unrecognizable slang. No, since he was determined to go through with it, Patty could not let the little apartment be deserted, could not break the heart of a woman she had come to respect and like. Wearily and with a sad little wrench at her heart, she agreed to play the play whose lines she knew so well.

DEFINITION OF "INTOXICATED"

Former Judge Walker, in his recital of experiences in Chicago in support of drivers' licenses, spoke of thirty auto drivers being sent to insane asylums; of drivers having the brains of a 10-year-old child, with no hope of improvement; of drivers who could not distinguish a red light from a green one; of drivers so near-sighted that they could not see more than a few feet beyond the front of the car; of drivers who could not read the traffic signs along the road; and of deaf drivers. He went on:

"Then there were the intoxicated drivers, many more who were habitual users of intoxicating liquor, who would not even be considered intoxicated by the casual observer; yet under the interpretation of the term 'intoxicated' as defined by the supreme courts of Iowa and Pennsylvania would be guilty of driving while intoxicated."

"Whenever a man is under the influence of liquor so as not to be entirely himself he is intoxicated, although he can walk straight, attend to his business and may not give any outward and visible signs to the casual observer that he is drunk. Yet if he is under the influence of liquor so as not to be himself, so as to be excited from it, and not to possess that clearness of intellect and control of himself that he otherwise would have, he is intoxicated."—Elkin v. Bilschner (Pa.) 16 A 102 104, and State vs. Baughman, 162 Iowa, 308.
